

I do not believe the FCC should implement any national standard which would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protection. I have been thrilled with the effectiveness of Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law, I used to receive 10-15 telemarketing calls a week and now I receive less than 1 per week. What a relief to come home after a long day of work, prepare and eat dinner, and relax without the interruption of overzealous telemarketers who don't take a polite "no" as a final response.
